Evening Verse_ (For Your Scrapbook) By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

THE FIRST WALTZ

Music is pleasing at noon . . . Music at night offers restful delight (Provided one changes the tune) Valtzes arranged for beginners Try the most tolerant ears Endlessly played until patience is frayed And music no longer endears.

Now that she's mastered a piece And the we suggest just a moment of rest
Her energy seems to increase.
At breakfast . . . at lunch . . . and at twilight
The music goes 'round and around
At bedtime she halts but we still hear the waltz Wherever an echo is found.

If music should somehow be rationed The measure might savor of faults But we would submit to conserving a bit When Mary Ann plays us her waltz.

Evening Verse_ (For Your Scrapbook) BY DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

THE FIRST WALTZ

Music hath charms in the morning . . . Waltzes arranged for beginners Try the most tolerant ears Endiessly played until patience is frayed And music no longer endears.

Mary Ann's fingers are tireless Now that she's mastered a piece

And the we suggest just a moment of rest
Her -nergy seems to increase.
At breakfast . . . at lunch . . . and at twilight
The music goes 'round and around

At bedtime she halts but we still hear the waitz
Wherever an echo is found.

If music should somehow be rationed.

The measure might savor of faults.

But we would submit to conserving a bit.

When Mary Ann plays us her waltz.

RUSSIAN PEACE PROPOSALS

Two or three years ago, any kind of peace proposal from the Soviet Union sent the free world into a breathless frenzy. Hope often ran high that the Cold War was about to end.

Slowly, the world's men of good will learned the bitter truth about the Russians. They learned that Russian peace offers were simply moves on a chessboard, tactical steps that often were offset by warlike gestures elsewhere at the very same moment. They discovered, too, that when talk of peace no longer suited the Kremlin's strategy, it was dropped-to be revived on another convenient occasion.

The free peoples digested this lesson painfully and grudgingly. Their wish for peace is so strong that they found themselves tantalized again and again by the thought that "this time maybe the Russians mean it."

Of course they never have meant it, and so at length the illusions of the hopeful have been shattered. Once aroused, the scorn of the trustful is a powerful emotion. It is that feeling whch the Russians now encounter when they propose anew that the world sit down and talk peace.

Nikolai Shvernik, Russia's figurehead president, wrote a letter to President Truman the other day suggesting a five-power peace parley with the U.S., Russia, Britain, France and Red China taking part. He talked of limiting armaments and outlawing the A-bomb.

Our government promptly responded by labeling the offer a "propaganda trap" designed to lull the free peoples to sleep. The State Department challenged Russia to honor existing obligations before taking on new treaty responsibilities.

The French and the British joined us in deriding the Soviet maneuver as mere propaganda. No one anywhere in the non-Communist world saw in it even a faint glimmer

Thus, without perhaps realizing it, the Russians may have come to the end of a road. They may have reached the point where repeating the same old tired lies generates not only disbelief but damaging reaction among sincere peace-loving peoples.

It is an axiom of totalitarian propaganda that if you tell a big lie often enough it will be widely believed. But it is quite conceivable that the Russians have squeezed the last possible ounce of advantage from this technique, and now find themselves relying on a formula which is sterile and empty.

Is there anyone left in the free world who really believes that Russian mention of the word "peace" has any meaning?

Honorable men today attribute no color of truth to any Soviet statement not issued under the pressure of opposition strength. They generally ignore Russian words and watch Russian deeds. Perhaps this fact will now begin to sink into the Kremlin's consciousness. If it does, we might hope to be spared henceforth the wearying boredom of meaningless peace offensives.

GRIDIRON COLOR

Television viewers have lost a point and gained one in the battle over the televising of athletic events. The University of Pennsylvania, disappointed in the lack of support from its sister institutions, has abandoned its plan to defy the National Collegiate Athletic Association ban against television coverage of intercollegiate football games. The TV cameras will not be standard equipment at Franklin Field this fall, after all.

But one of the television networks has announced a schedule of nine special football raises the blood pressure. This decreases anxiety game telecasts this fall, with the blessing of the N.C.A.A. Two of these will be at Pennsylvania. The catch is that they will be color broadcasts, which cannot be received on standard TV sets. Apparently officials of the association believe color receivers will not be numerous enough to interfere with the gate receipts.

'These Days' By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE HEART OF THE PROBLEM In all the discussion of the West Point scandal, the emphasis lies on the immediate, on the young men, who are often euphemistically called boys, on the officers, on the parents. Many say, "boys will be boys," which is biologically correct until boys become men with the obligations and responsibili-

Others feel that football players have to do so much practice that they cannot keep up with their work unless they are "assisted." And nothing is being said about the cadets who have not cheated. The real issue is the nature and purpose of a college, university or other school, and of such special schools as West Point and Annapolis. This issue has, more or less, been dodged by many educators as well as parents, since it has become increasingly popular for young men and women to go to schools for higher education and special training whether they have an aptitude for scholarship or

The question then arises whether students attend to broaden their minds and spirits or to make friends or to mark time or to play what has come to be professional or semi-professional sports. When scholarships are given to men and women because of their excellence as sudents, the reward is in the field to which the universities have been devoted since the founding of Bologna in the Eleventh Cen-

The athletic scholarship is a fee paid for special services rendered outside of scholarship. The object is to make money for the school, to attract box office receipts, to advertise the institution. It is strictly a business proposition and those to whom the fees are paid are professional performers-in whole or in part-depending upon the individual and the school.

Sometimes such paid performers are also capable of scholarship; often scholarship is not only foreign but offensive to them. In the latter instance, if they are good enough performers to be of commercial value, they are "assisted" to pass examinations so that they may comply with rules and regulations.

At such a school as West Point, this raises three important issues:

Under the honor system, the individual who "assists," the individual who is "assisted," and anyone who knows about it is honor bound to report the fact. West Point is a free school, the tuition, board, lodging, uniforms and other expenses being paid by the taxpayer, Also, the students are soldiers in the army, drawing pay. They are especially bound by rules and regulations in compliance with which they receive these benefits from the

2. These men are to be our generals of the future upon whom the survival of the nation depends. The United States makes a huge investment in each one of them, not only to be "educated," as you and I might have been at college, but to protect, defend and safeguard the nation and the Constitution. They are men apart, whose word must be inviolate for the safety of the nation. Therefore, the word, honor, must have, for them, a special and emphatic

3. The standing of a West Point man is not only a matter of personal pride; it is a matter of record, upon which an officer's career may depend. Even now, 48 years after his graduation, the fact that General Douglas MacArthur stood first in his

If cadets are "assisted" the record is inaccurate. That assistance, on the other hand, may result in better men being kept lower on the list because they do not play football. It means that the standing of these soldiers and gentlemen is false. If the West Point records are falsified, we do not know any longer what kind of officer material is coming out of that school; we have no measure to decide whether it is safe to entrust them with the responsibilities for which they receive special training at the taxpayers' expense.

This, it seems to me, is the heart of the problem. A full and serious congressional investigation needs to be made of the entire situation, in a broad spirit, without regard to individuals. West Point is either a school for military officers and gentlemen or it is a show place which Rose might manage and save the taxpayer the cost. And these criteria could with advantage be applied to many prep schools, colleges, and universities. Perhaps some day, in their search for advertising methods, to raise funds, or to attract attention, schools will hire a corps of showgirls to put on an exhibition of slightly clothed pulchritude. But that is not education. (Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PROBLEMS OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE When a patient consults his physician and one of the early findings during examination and questioning points to a disease of a certain organ yet careful investigation by laboratory methods and X-rays shows no organic disease present, most of us may think that this should be enough to re-. assure the patient. However, he still has his symptoms which do not disappear entirely despite his physician's reassurance.

Today, as never before, men and women are interested in their blood pressure, knowing that high blood pressure is often a forerunner of heart strokes (coronary thrombosis) and brain strokes (apo-

In The American Journal of Psychiatry, Drs. Edward Weiss, Beryl Jaffe and H. K. Fischer, Philadelphia, state that observing that physicians searching for the cause or causes of high blood pressure, finding no organic disease, and failing in their attempts to reassure these patients by psychiatric and psychological methods, decided to study unselected consecutive patients encountered in a hypertension (high blood pressure) clinic. To the usual physical and laboratory studies, social history, Rorschach test (which measures intelligence and emotion), and psychiatric interview were added.

These research physicians found that a large percentage of these patients had emotional disorders before the development of high blood pressure and this was the factor that produced the symp-

Pain under breast bone, palpitation, shortness of breath and fatigue are a group of symptoms associated with fear of heart disease when no disease is present, and these same symptoms occur when high blood pressure really is present. Study of the mental, emotional and physical make-up of these patients reveals that the symptoms of which they complain are out of proportion to the disease, "that there is much conflict in the personality make-up and that simple or superficial treatment of this personality will often prove of great benefit to the

"All varieties of character and nervous disturbance occur, but most often the hypertension (high blood pressure) is found in personalities with 'compulsive' characters. Therefore, repressed hostility (not being able to do what they want to do) is the underlying cause to be treated by sympathetic and often the blood pressure.'

Two or three years ago, any kind of peace proposal from the Soviet Union sent the free world into a breathless frenzy. Hope often ran high that the Cold War was about to end.

Slowly, the world's men of good will learned the bitter truth about the Russians. They learned that Russian peace offers were simply moves on a chessboard, tactical steps that often were offset by warlike gestures elsewhere at the very same moment. They discovered, too, that when talk of peace no longer suited the Kremlin's strategy, it was dropped-to be revived on another convenient occasion.

The free peoples digested this lesson painfully and grudgingly. Their wish for peace is so strong that they found themselves tantalized again and again by the thought that "this time maybe the Russians mean it."

Of course they never have meant it, and so at length the illusions of the hopeful have been shattered. Once aroused, the scorn of the trustful is a powerful emotion. It is that feeling whch the Russians now encounter when they propose anew that the world sit down and talk peace.

Nikolai Shvernik, Russia's figurehead president, wrote a letter to President Truman the other day suggesting a five-power peace parley with the U. S., Russia, Britain, France and Red China taking part. He talked of limiting armaments and outlawing the A-bomb.

Our government promptly responded by labeling the offer a "propaganda trap" designed to lull the free peoples to sleep. The State Department challenged Russia to honor existing obligations before taking on new treaty responsibilities.

The French and the British joined us in deriding the Soviet maneuver as mere propaganda. No one anywhere in the non-Communist world saw in it even a faint glimmer of hope.

Thus, without perhaps realizing it, the Russians may have come to the end of a road. They may have reached the point where repeating the same old tired lies generates not only disbelief but damaging reaction among sincere peace-loving peoples.

It is an axiom of totalitarian propaganda that if you tell a big lie often enough it will be widely believed. But it is quite conceivable that the Russians have squeezed the last possible ounce of advantage from this technique, and now find themselves relying on a formula which is sterile and empty.

Is there anyone left in the free world who really believes that Russian mention of the word "peace" has any meaning?

Honorable men today attribute no color of truth to any Soviet statement not issued under the pressure of opposition strength. They generally ignore Russian words and watch Russian deeds. Perhaps this fact will now begin to sink into the Kremlin's consciousness. If it does, we might hope to be spared henceforth the wearying boredom of meaningless peace offensives.

GRIDIRON COLOR

Television viewers have lost a point and gained one in the battle over the televising of athletic events. The University of Pennsylvania, disappointed in the lack of support from its sister institutions, has abandoned its plan to defy the National Collegiate Athletic Association ban against television coverage of intercollegiate football games. The TV cameras will not be standard equipment at Franklin Field this fall, after all.

But one of the television networks has announced a schedule of nine special football game telecasts this fall, with the blessing of sylvania. The catch is that they will be color broadcasts, which cannot be received on standard TV sets. Apparently officials of the association believe color receivers will not be numerous enough to interfere with the gate receipts.

'These Days' By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE HEART OF THE PROBLEM In all the discussion of the West Point scandal, the emphasis lies on the immediate, on the young men, who are often euphemistically called boys, on the officers, on the parents. Many say, "boys will be boys," which is biologically correct until boys become men with the obligations and responsibilities of men. Others feel that football players have to do so much practice that they cannot keep up with their work unless they are "assisted." And nothing is being said about the cadets who have not cheated. The real issue is the nature and purpose of a college, university or other school, and of such special schools as West Point and Annapolis. This issue has, more or less, been dodged by many educators as well as perents since it has become incators as well as parents, since it has become in-creasingly popular for young men and women to go to schools for higher education and special training whether they have an aptitude for scholarship or

The question then arises whether students at-tend to broaden their minds and spirits or to make friends or to mark time or to play what has come to be professional or semi-professional sports. When scholarships are given to men and women because of their excellence as sudents, the reward is in the field to which the universities have been devoted since the founding of Bologna in the Eleventh Cen-

The athletic scholarship is a fee paid for special services rendered outside of scholarship. The object is to make money for the school, to attract box office receipts, to advertise the institution. It is strictly a business proposition and those to whom the fees are paid are professional performers—in whole or in part—depending upon the individual and the school.

Sometimes such paid performers are also capable of scholarship; often scholarship is not only foreign but offensive to them. In the latter instance, if they are good enough performers to be of commercial value, they are "assisted" to pass examinations so that they may comply with rules and regulations.

At such a school as West Point, this raises three important issues: Under the honor system, the individual who "assists," the individual who is "assisted," and anyone who knows about it is honor bound to report the fact. West Point is a free school, the tuition, board, lodging, uniforms and other expenses being paid by the taxpayer. Also, the students are soldiers in the army, drawing pay. They are especially bound by rules and regulations in compliance with which they receive these benefits from the

2. These men are to be our generals of the fu-ture upon whom the survival of the nation depends. The United States makes a huge investment in each one of them, not only to be "educated," as you and I might have been at college, but to protect, defend and safeguard the nation and the Constitution. They are men apart, whose word must be inviolate for the safety of the nation. Therefore, the word, honor, must have, for them, a special and emphatic

3. The standing of a West Point man is not only a matter of personal pride; it is a matter of record, upon which an officer's career may depend. Even now, 48 years after his graduation, the fact that General Douglas MacArthur stood first in his class is significant.

If cadets are "assisted" the record is inaccurate. That assistance, on the other hand, may result in better men being kept lower on the list because they do not play football. It means that the standing of these soldiers and gentlemen is false. If the West Point records are falsified, we do not know any longer what kind of officer material is coming out of that school; we have no measure to decide whether it is safe to entrust them with the responsibilities for which they receive special training at the taxpayers' expense

This, it seems to me, is the heart of the problem. A full and serious congressional investigation needs to be made of the entire situation, in a broad

spirit, without regard to individuals. West Point is either a school for military officers and gentlemen or it is a show place which Billy Rose might manage and save the taxpayer the cost. And these criteria could with advantage be applied to many prep schools, colleges, and universities. Perhaps some day, in their search for advertising methods, to raise funds, or to attract attention, schools will hire a corps of showgirls to put on an exhibition of slightly clothed pulchritude.

But that is not education. (Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PROBLEMS OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE When a patient consults his physician and one of the early findings during examination and questioning points to a disease of a certain organ yet careful investigation by laboratory methods and X-rays shows no organic disease present, most of us may think that this should be enough to re-assure the patient. However, he still has his symp-

Pain under breast bone, palpitation, shortness of breath and fatigue are a group of symptoms associated with fear of heart disease when no disease is present, and these same symptoms occur when high blood pressure really is present. Study of the mental, emotional and physical make-up of these patients reveals that the symptoms of which they complain are out of proportion to the disease, "that there is much conflict in the personality make-up and that simple or superficial treatment of this personality will often prove of great benefit to the camp itself. According to the directors, the Council, which includes both Ulster and Greene counties, has a membership of 938 Scouts. Of this figure, 215 were at the camp, some for more than one week making a total of 306 Boy Scout weeks during the five-week camp-ing period. A staff of 12 trained counselors conducted and supervised the program.

"All varieties of character and nervous disturbance occur, but most often the hypertension (high blood pressure) is found in personalities with 'compulsive' characters. Therefore, repressed hostility (not being able to do what they want to do) is the underlying cause to be treated by sympathetic questioning and explaining how repressed hostility raises the blood pressure. This decreases anxiety and often the blood pressure." How Is Your Blood Pressure?

The following report also was issued today by the directors: Advancement Cited

"During the five-week period, these 215 Scouts were advancing in scoutcraft. Six hundred and 27 requirements were met and 47 merit badges were earned. These covered many subjects not easily available during the balance of the year: outdoor cooking, hiking, swimming and many other out- We've been holding team matches door activities. With the closing of the Boy Scout Camp Tri-Mount, East Jewett for the present season, and having recently launched the finance campaign, directors of the Rip Van Winkle Council today released vital statistics concerning the Council organization and

According to the directors, the Council, which includes both Ulster and Greene counties, has a membership of 938 Scouts. Of this figure, 215 were at the camp, some for more than one week making a total of 306 Boy Scout weeks during the five-week camping period. A staff of 12 trained counselors conducted and supervised the program.

The following report also was issued today by the directors: Advancement Cited

"During the five-week period, these 215 Scouts were advancing in scoutcraft. Six hundred and 27 requirements were met and 47 merit badges were earned. These covered many subjects not easily available during the balance of the year: outdoor cooking, hiking, nature study, rope work and pioneering, proper use of the axe, swimming and many other outdoor activities. Swimming structions were made available to to swim or advanced in swimming proficiency. The Order of the Arrow, an honorary camping society, open only to scout campers, acquired many new members."

Another feature of the camp, the directors pointed out, was hobby day when various men came to camp to explain, instruct and entertain the scouts regarding their hobbies. Subjects covered included Indian lore, photography, soil and plant conservation. Two representatives of the State Conservation Department also at-tended and showed movies covering the topic of conservation. Reporting on the meals at the camp, the directors noted that during the 1951 camping season, the following edibles were consumed: 1,010 loaves of bread, 915 quarts of milk, 940 pounds of jam, jelly and apple butter, 1,000 pounds of potatoes, 962 pounds of meat, 131 pounds of fish, 180 dozen eggs and proportionately all other necessary food items.

Leon Randall's "143" Leads Father Herdegen Field by Two Strokes

Wiltwyck Ace Fires Rounds of 73 and 70

Lanky Leon Randall goes to the Woodstock Country Club next Sunday for the finals of the Father Herdegen Memorial Tournament with a three-stroke lead over the field.

And he has that bulge because he fired nine holes of golf in the stretch at his home club Sunday that would have done credit to Ben

Randall's 36-hole total of 143 put him two strokes ahead of George Hughes, of Twaalfskill, and five over two other rugged competitors, Alvin Boice, of Twaalfskill, and Roy Vogt of the home club.

His 18-hole card at Wiltwyck showed seven birdies and he closed out his performance with two dramatic shots on the ninth green for birdies.

On the first nine, Randall canned a rolling 32-foot putt for a regulation 4 and then he thrilled a large gallery at the finish with a spectacular uphill 30-footer that curled in for a birdie-3.

The silent swinger with the ice water in his veins, opened with a par-35 at Twaalfskill on Saturday and was in with a 38 for a threeover 73. He was out in 38 and finished with a blazing threeunder-par 32 on Sunday.

Hughes Second

George Hughes and Alvin Boice tied for the lead with par 70s on opening day. Hughes slipped five over par with 36-39-75 at Wiltwyck for a 36-hole score of 145. That gave him the lead until Randall started burning up the fairways on the last nine. Boice got a shaky start at Twaalfskill with a 37 but was two under with a 33 on the incoming nine for his flat 70.

Randall's card at Wiltwyck showed birdies both times around on the first hole, fifth hole. He also birdied the No. 2 second time around, the difficult sixth and the equally tough ninth. His first round 38 was equally spectacular when you realize that he needed seven to get down on the No. 7

Behind Hughes and Boice came Roy Vogt with a strong kick at the finish to tie for third place with 148. Roy had 73 at Twaalf-skill and 75 at Wiltwyck.

Raichle Has 33

opened with a 33 at Wiltwyck and finished in 39 for a 72. He had Clarence "D u b b y" Raichle 77 at Twaalfskill for a 149.

His 18-hole card at Wiltwyck showed se out his performance with two dramatic show birdies.

On the first nine, Randall canned a rolling 32-foot putt for a regulation 4 and then he thrilled a large gallery at the finish with a spectacular uphill 30-footer that curled in for a birdie-3.

The silent swinger with the ice water in his veins, opened with a par-35 at Twaalfskill on Saturday and was in with a 38 for a threeover 73. He was out in 38 and finished with a blazing threeunder-par 32 on Sunday.

Hughes Second George Hughes and Alvin Boice tied for the lead with par 70s on opening day. Hughes slipped five over par with 36-39-75 at Wiltwyck for a 36-hole score of 145. That gave him the lead until Randall started burning up the fairways on the last nine.

Boice got a shaky start at Twaalfskill with a 37 but was two under with a 33 on the incoming nine for his flat 70. Randall's card at Wiltwyck showed birdies both times around | Walter Seaton, 79-72-171; Joon the first hole, fifth hole. He also birdied the No. 2 second time around, the difficult sixth and the equally tough ninth. His first round 38 was equally spectacular when you realize that he needed seven to get down on the No. 7

Closing Phase of 1951 Season Gets Under Way

Game Time Moved Up to 8 o'clock

The Colonials launch the final phase of the 1951 Can-Am campaign against the Amsterdam Rugmakers tonight at municipal stadium at 8 o'clock.

This will be the final appearance of the season for the Little Yankees and the first of nine remaining home dates for the locals. The starting time tonight is a half hour earlier than usual.

Two big events are slated for the remainder of the slate, with the remainder of the slate, with Electrol Night set for Sunday, Amsterdam ... 201 010 004-7 9 2 Amsterdam ... 201 010 202-8 12 1 Aug. 19, and Car Night on Satur-

Veto Shaughnessy

Directors of the Can-Am League voted Saturday to cancel post-season Shaughnessy playoff for this season, on the grounds that, if held, they might be operated at a financial loss. The six directors adopted unanimously and without debate a motion by Paul Tamburiello of the Pittsfield Electrics that the customary Shaughnessy playoffs not

In presenting the motion, Tamburiello said the poor attendance records and general apathy of fans indicated that the playoffs, if held, would be a financial loss. All six directors, each representing a league team, reported their clubs were operating in the red at the present time. The directors agreed, however, to hold a post-season playoff for 4:40 the league championship, in the event the Oneonta Red Sox do not win the second half. There is slim chance of such 5:15 an eventuality, however, since the Red Sox farmhands have the best pitching in the league and

Can-Am League

The Colonials launch the final phase of the 1951 Can-Am campaign against the Amsterdam Rugmakers tonight at municipal stadium at 8 o'clock. This will be the final appearance of the season for the Little Yankees and the first of nine remaining home dates for the locals. The starting time tonight is a half hour earlier than usual. Two big events are slated for the remainder of the slate, with Aug. 19, and Car Night on Saturday, Aug. 25. Kingston completed a winless road trip Saturday night by dropping a 7 to 1 decision to ancient Ollie Byers of the Colonels.

The loss and last night's postponement because of wet grounds in Rome left the Colonials in a tie for last place with the Col-

Business Manager Warren Smith said today that all clubs will be making their final appearances in Kingston this month for the re-One on the season One of the season One on the season One of the seaso mainder of the season.

"The fans will have their last chance to see our team in action against the various rivals," he said, "and, of course, we will be battling to keep Rome in the cel-playoff for this season, on the grounds that, if held, they might be operated at a financial loss. The six directors adopted unanimously and without debate a motomary Shaughnessy playoffs not be held. In presenting the motion, Tam-buriello said the poor attendance records and general apathy of ans indicated that the playoffs, if held, would be a financial loss. All six directors, each representing a league team, reported their clubs were operating in the The directors agreed, however, to hold a post-season playoff for the league championship, in the event the Oneonta Red Sox do not win the second half.

There is slim chance of such an eventuality, however, since the Red Sox farmhands have the best pitching in the league and are threatening to make shambles of the second half.

Hurls Three-Hitter Ollie Byers restricted the Colonials to three hits in Saturday's contest and lost a shutout in the fourth when Johnny DiFresco
